OBITUARY -- James A. Paulsen

Published 4:00 am PDT, Friday, September 29, 1995

James A. Paulsen, a psychiatrist at the Palo Alto Medical Clinic for 25 years, died September 17 at his home in San Francisco of a chronic heart condition. He was 72.

Dr. Paulsen, who retired from the clinic in the mid-1980s, served for 10 of the 25 years as head of psychiatric services at the Cowell Student Health Service at Stanford University -- then operated by the clinic. He had a lifelong interest in the problems of drug abuse among young persons.

He was born in Chicago and studied medicine at the University of Chicago. He moved to California in 1950 for an internship in psychiatry at St. Luke's Hospital in San Francisco, then completed his residency at the Palo Alto Veterans Administration Hospital.
